

Sarah

Sarah, I can see in your eyes
Something is bothering you. I don't know why.
Sarah, tell me what can it be
Where are the smiles that I once used to see.

Sarah, I can see in your eyes
Something is bothering you. I don't know why.
Sarah, tell me what can it be
Where are the smiles that I once used to see.

Is it something that I've forgotten?
Is it something I've said or done wrong?
Have I acted unkind, Sarah, is it I'm blind?
Don't you see that I can't read your mind?

Sarah, I can see in your eyes
Something you're hiding is hurting inside.
Sarah, tell me what can it be?
What is the secret you're keeping from me?

Are you just trying to protect me?
Am I better off not knowing why?
If I am say the word, Sarah, just let me know.
Right or wrong I will still love you so.

Sarah, I can see in your eyes
Something is bothering you and I don't know why.
Sarah, you're the love of my life.
I just want you to be safe in this world
And to be happy, my little girl.

Words and Music by Bernard Leclerc
©2002